

sztafcące nległo i budowy

A close-up photograph of the binding of an old book. The image shows the spine and the edges of the pages, which are made of aged, yellowish-brown paper. The binding appears to be a simple, traditional style, possibly using cords or threads to hold the pages together. The lighting is soft, highlighting the texture of the paper and the wear on the binding.

